

Compost for healthy soils, vines and pastures

Australian Soil Management are working with Vineyards in the Griffith area using compost to improve soil health. Improving soil health is an important first step in improving vines and grape productivity. This year, compost has been applied to vineyards at De Bortoli Wines and Warburn Estate Wines.

ASM invites producers, land owners and managers to a free information session to find out more.

Discussions will include:

- Compost for vines and grape health
How can we use compost to improve soil health and grow better grapes?
- Soil – your most important farm asset
How can we make soil really work for us?
How is compost applied?
What are the costs?
